Spanish exchange student brings families together

When Marcos Lopez became an exchange student in the United States, he brought two families together: his host family in rural McIntosh and his family back home in Spain.

Marcos, 17, who just finished his junior year at Win-E-Mac High School in Erskine, spent the school year with Shawn and Tamera Ostenaar and their son Noah, 14, and daughter Izabelle, 12, in rural McIntosh. But thanks to Skype, he's also connected to his family, and so are the Ostenaas.

Marcos has been kept busy translating between Spanish and English as the two families communicated via Skype during the school year and became closer.

"His parents ask when Noah will come as an exchange student," Tamera said, adding that Marcos' family wants the entire Ostenaar family to visit them. This is one family relationship that isn't going to end anytime soon. In fact, the Ostenaas are already thinking that one of Marcos' two brothers could join them as an exchange student, too.

Connecting with Marcos
Shawn and Tamera had seen family members host exchange students over the years, a grandma for Shawn and an aunt and uncle for Tamera, so they were familiar with the process.

They became interested in becoming a host family themselves after hosting two girls for a week who were vacation Bible school counselors at Grace Lutheran Church in Erskine. Tamera and Shawn had an extra bedroom in their house, and they enjoyed having the girls for the week. "It went really good," Tamera said.

So they contacted International Student Exchange and were matched with Marcos after extensive screenings and questionnaires on both sides.

Marcos sought an exchange student experience to make a change. "It was the same routine every year," he said. "I wanted something different." He also wanted to learn more about the U.S. culture and improve his English skills to help himself in whatever career he chooses.

"At first I thought, 'He speaks really good English,'" Tamera said, adding that even so, Marcos' English is much better than when he arrived.

"At first we had to talk slow," Shawn said.

At the beginning of the school year, Marcos had to work hard to understand what his teachers were saying during class, but that came easier as his English improved.

"They're all really nice to me," he said of the teachers, and he's made lots of friends. "It's hard to be in the same sport and not make friends." He likes all his classes, and math is probably his favorite.

From small town to smaller town
Marcos lives in Alalpardo, Spain, which is near Madrid. Alalpardo is a relatively small town, so living near McIntosh is not strange to him. He flew to Minneapolis last August, and his first experiences in the U.S. were in crowds: at the Mall of America and the Minnesota State Fair.

He misses Spanish food, like paella, chorizo, fabada (a hearty bean stew) and morcilla (blood sausage), traditional foods in Spain. One of the first foods he prepared for his host family was a Spanish omelet. He also has cooked chorizo and morcilla, prompting mixed reactions to the blood sausage.

But there were no mixed reactions on either side when Marcos joined the family. The friendly, smiling young man quickly became a part of the family, Tamera said.

"He's been fun," Shawn said. "Very outgoing. At school he just fit in right away with everybody."

While visiting the Grand Canyon, Noah and Izabelle Ostenaar take in the view from their perch with exchange student Marcos Lopez.

Marcos was looking forward to basketball, which he plays all year back home. In the States, he had to wait until the winter season to join the basketball team, so he decided to try football to make friends.

"I was pretty lost," he said, but he had fun and learned the sport. He also started dating his girlfriend, Elly Lindberg, 15. Later, he and Elly took a trip to Minneapolis with her family, making another family connection.

Since he's been in Minnesota, Marcos has visited Las Vegas and the Grand Canyon with the Ostenaas, tried ice fishing (Izabelle showed him how to snag a minnow and bait the hook) and gone snowboarding at Detroit Mountain in Detroit Lakes.

Sibling bonds form
He and Noah and Shawn are also building a tree house that began as a project for father and son and has grown into one for the two teenage boys. Elly sometimes helps out, but her presence distracts Marcos too much, Noah joked.

Marcos and Noah have become like brothers, calling each other "brother from a different mother," Tamera said. "It's constantly 'bro.'" Izabelle likes to have Marcos help her with cooking and baking. All three of them play basketball, another bond they share.

For Noah, being around Marcos has meant not just a brother connection, but also a conduit that's helped him come out of his shell more.

"Noah used to be super shy, and now he's much more outgoing because of Marcos," Tamera said.

Mosquitoes: Even worse than the cold

The worst thing about Minnesota for Marcos isn't the cold; the mosquitoes are what really bother him. The stings from the pesky bugs brought out huge welts that Marcos would scratch uncontrollably, wondering why nothing could truly take away the itch.

But still, the cold came as a surprise to him, especially a particularly frigid stretch of low temperatures. "Sometimes I was really, really cold and wanted to go outside and stuff (but it was just too cold) ... but it wasn't bad. It was a new experience."

Indeed, Marcos enjoyed snowboarding, getting rides on snowmobiles, and playing king of the hill; just not on those coldest days of the year. In fact, he wishes he could have done more snowboarding.

Also among the good things, but in a warmer setting, were s'mores, which he ate voraciously, Tamera said.

Marcos' time in Minnesota began Aug. 28, just before the school year began, and will end June 16 as he returns to Spain and reunites with his parents and his two younger brothers. Among the family activities over these last two weeks just might be a trip to Itasca State Park, a destination Marcos hasn't been to yet.

Theology in the Trenches

By Kathleen Kjolhaug

On the Lookout for Something

Years back I had to buy new hubcaps. Intently, I scrutinized the various styles, makes, and models. There wasn't a hubcap that I drove by that I didn't notice.

A new computer at another juncture in life was much needed. Thus, computers were on my radar. When choosing new siding for the house, as far as the eye could see, siding took over the landscape. I suppose it must have happened that way when searching for my husband. All I could see were choices until I finally found the right one! Then, I simply stopped looking around.

Recently, I had surgery. It wasn't just any surgery. Nope. It was on a location that happened to be right smack dab on the tip of my nose. And now, all I can see are noses and without a doubt, all they can see is mine.

Bandaged in white, it's an eye sore. As I speak to others, a couple of minutes into the conversation, their hand will go up to the tip of their own nose and ever so subtly swipe it.

It's sort of like when you stand directly across from someone who has their arms crossed, and soon you find yourself standing there with your arms crossed. Or perhaps someone has their hands on their hips and as you converse, sooner or later, you do as well. It's non-intentional, but it's what we do as human beings. We are a peculiar bunch. While so much is done non-intentionally, in truth, so much more can be done intentionally.

"The nose knows" is a funny little saying, but perhaps it's true. The direction in which it points usually has us on the lookout for something. As I look in the direction the white bandages point, I wonder what my

Ask a Trooper

Question: A friend of mine recently saw two people riding their horses at night near a bar. We suspect they were trying to avoid a DWI. Can you get a DWI while riding a horse? What about a bicycle?

Answer: In Minnesota, it is a crime for any person to drive, operate, or be in physical control of any motor vehicle, within this state or on any boundary water of this state when:

- The person is under the influence of alcohol.
- The person is under the influence of a controlled substance.
- The person is knowingly under the influence of a hazardous substance.
- The person is under the influence of a combination of any two or more of the above elements.
- The person's alcohol concentration at the time, or as measured within two hours of the time, of driving, operating, or being in physical control of the motor vehicle is 0.08 or more.
- The vehicle is a commercial motor vehicle and the person's alcohol concentration at the nose beneath them is pointing to.

Perhaps it is pointing me away from self so that I may be more intentionally focused on others. For sure it points towards others who have it worse than I because as of late, all I can see are bigger, deeper, wider, more invasive wounds than the one I am carrying.

Perhaps being a bit wounded is a good thing. Although weary from the pain, I'm now much more aware of my own weakness. The wound helps me to see well beyond it.

I can see beyond to what He endured. I can see beyond to His wounds as pointed out in Isaiah 53:5.

"But He was wounded for our transgressions. He was bruised for our iniquities. The chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."

The focal point doesn't get much clearer than that. Amen.

- The person's body contains any amount of a controlled substance listed in Schedule I or II, or its metabolite, other than marijuana or tetrahydrocannabinols.

A horse or bicycle does not fit the definition of a motor vehicle, so the operator/rider cannot be arrested for DWI. My concern would be for the overall safety of the horse and the rider. I have seen intoxicated bicycle riders crash or stuck by vehicles due to their judgement and balance effected by being impaired. An intoxicated person could easily fall off a horse or a bike and be injured.

Impaired driving does not always involve alcohol. Prescription medications, illegal drugs and any substance that effects your ability to drive a vehicle safely can be considered DWI and a driver can be arrested for it. Troopers focus on getting impaired drivers off the road before they hurt or kill themselves or others that are sharing the road.

Whether you are traveling a long distance or staying close to home, it's important to focus on safe driving. Memorial Day weekend kicked off the summer vacation and travel season, but sadly it also marked the start of the 100 deadliest days on Minnesota roads.

Preliminary numbers show the 100 day stretch between Memorial Day and Labor Day last year accounted for 120 of the 392 traffic fatalities, about 31 percent of all Minnesota traffic deaths in 2016.

To help make the summer travel season safe and enjoyable for everyone, motorists need to drive sober, pay attention, slow down and buckle up.

Services for Phyllis Clemenson

Phyllis Helen Clemenson, 94, of Berner, MN died on Thursday, June 1, 2017 at The Good Samaritan Center in Clearbrook, MN surrounded by her loving family.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday, June 10, 2017 at 1:00 p.m. at United Lutheran Church in Berner, MN with Reverend Kris Snyder Officiating. Visitation will be on Friday, June 9 at Cease Family Funeral Home in Bagley, MN from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. with a Prayer Service at 6:30 p.m.; a visitation will also be one hour prior to the service on Saturday at the Church. Interment will be at United Lutheran Cemetery in Berner, MN. The Cease Family Funeral Home of Bagley assisted the family with arrangements.

She was born north of Trail, MN on the family farm on February, 28, 1923, the daughter of Peter and Clara (Clausen) Berg. The family moved to the Berner area, where she went to the Meadowbrook Country School and Windsor School before graduating from Gonvick High School. She continued her education and graduated from Bemidji Business College in 1944. She went on to work at the Bank in Oklee, MN. Her family moved to Ogden, UT, but she fell in love and traveled to Texas on a train to be with Milan T. Clemenson.

They were united in marriage on January 27, 1945 in Mineral Wells, TX. They took the train back to Minnesota to enjoy Milan's furlough before he was deployed overseas to serve in WWII. While he was away, their first child, Susan was born while Phyllis stayed with her parents. After Milan came back, they bought a farm and happily lived there for sixty plus years until Milan passed away in his home on March 29, 2004.

Phyllis worked at Northern State Bank in Gonvick for 23 years before retiring only to find she did not like retirement. She began working at the Mrs. Olson's Lefse factory and officially retired at 81. She was very involved in her church at United Lutheran, whether it was helping with the Ladies Aid, teaching Sunday School, or assisting anyone with a helping hand. Phyllis was also a member of the American Legion Auxiliary. She loved Berner and her community there.

Phyllis loved her farm with her garden and chickens. She was an amazing baker, known especially for her chocolate chip cookies. She adored her family and did her best to make sure they all knew how much she loved them. Phyllis was a soft, sweet woman with a tender and honest heart. She will be tremendously missed. Blessed be her memory.

She is survived by her children, Susan Paulson, Sharon (James) Solien, Linda (Keith) Barcus, Dennis Clemenson and fiancé Harriet, Cindy (Jerry) Erickson, and Sandy (Ken) Charpentier; 18 grandchildren; 30 great grandchildren; 1 great great grandchild; and a special daughter-in-law, Renae Clemenson.

She was preceded in death by her beloved husband, Milan Clemenson; her parents, Peter and Clara Berg; her siblings, Mavis Clemenson, Duane Berg, and Joyce Hart; and her son-in-law, Dick Watne.

Massey 101

by Eric Mickelson

Massey Harris 101 tractor was built from 1938-1946. The 101 featured a Chrysler L head inline six cylinder engine. Instead of developing a new engine this allowed Massey to use the already existing Chrysler network. The 101 Junior came out in 1939 and used a 4 cylinder Continental Engine. In 1942 the 101 Senior also came out, this was actually basically the same as 1938's 101 tractor, although they changed to a 6 cylinder Continental engine. The 101 series of tractors came in standard tread as well as a row crop design. Originally designated the 101 Super was added to it and was produced until 1942 when the earlier mentioned 101 Senior took it's place.

I have never been around the 101 line of Masseys, but they have always intrigued me. I was just watching a tractor video and they were talking to a Massey restorer and he made a comment that I agree with. He said, "One thing about Massey, they made a pretty tractor!" I guess that is what I like about the 101s. The red paint, straw yellow wheels, side panels, and chrome strips on the grill sure made them appealing to the eye. That inline six cylinder engine was smooth running! Massey sales literature advertised "Streamlined for beauty and better vision!" and "A Velvet Ride Seat!"

I don't know if this is exactly true, but take a look, "Yes, Massey Harris made a pretty tractor!"

Trevor Anderson, son of Josh and Viola Anderson from Clearbrook, with his first wild turkey gobbler. The 22 pound double bearded tom was taken at 7:20 am on May 29th with his grandpa's trusty Remington 1100 12 gauge!

Here is an F-20 I came across last summer near Menahga. It had a mechanical loader run by the belt pulley!
