Vote for Your Favorite “Get Wild with Wild Rice” Recipe Today! These are Candidates Everyone Can Support!

In celebration of National Rice Month (September), the Minnesota Cultivated Wild Rice Council is asking for your help in determining the “People’s Choice” winner of its 10th Annual “Get Wild with Wild Rice” recipe contest. Over 100 wild rice recipe entries were whittled down to 13 final “candidates” which will compete for the coveted cash prize. The recipe finalists include soups, salads, sides, and skillet meals and are featured on the Council’s website (mnwildrice.org).

National Rice Month, established in 1991 to increase the awareness of rice as well as recognize the contribution the rice industry makes to America’s economy, is a month-long celebration taking place in grocery stores, restaurants, schools, and rice-growing communities across the country. Preparing one of our new delicious wild rice finalist recipes is a perfect way to join in this annual celebration.

Something Special is scheduled for the September 12th Sons of Norway meeting!

Gully, Minnesota, Artist, Cindy Kolling, owner of Kolling Cards and Things Made Here! will give a program presentation about the evolution of product design, production and markets of this small hometown-area wholesale business.

There will be various samples on view and many door prizes! Kolling Cards products feature hand-drawn, original designs by Artist, Cindy Kolling. The subjects are carefully researched Nature History Heritage, Arts & Science™ and include interesting information about the subjects.

In addition to cards, journals and other stationery items, the feature is Minne-Mural Coloring Art Posters. A free sample will be given to each person in attendance at the September meeting and will be invited to create some "Awesome Wall Art" while visiting or listening to the program. We do know that all good Scandinavians can visit and color at the same time!

Designs to choose from will include a variety of subjects reflecting our area: Wildlife, Scenery, Farm Life, Logging, Pioneer era, and a series of Scandinavian-American heritage designs. The Scandinavian-American series reflects aspects of this heritage that we tend to share from generation to generation. The Scandinavian Heritage series is sold at many Scandinavian gift and specialty stores including those at the Vesterheim Museum in Decorah, Iowa and the Swedish American Museum in Minneapolis.

The Minne-Murals activity is suitable for anyone over about 8 years old. They are very popular with adults from a wide range of demographics all the way from device-disconnecting teens to stressed-out moms to cranky old geezers. Come and enjoy this evening of creative activity and learning fun. Plan now to attend the Sons of Norway Granlund Lodge meeting at the Fosston Embassy on Thursday, September 12 with the meeting at 6:30, and Cindy's program beginning around 7:30.

My Younger Days

Norris Syverson, a man with many memories, came to us at Richards Publishing and asked if we could make a book for him. He wrote the stories, and Carolyn (Finseth) Nelson typed what he wrote. It has been quite a journey through life for Norris and being the man that he is, he wants to share with folks his memories of days gone by. Over 200 pages! Over 100 pictures! Over 500 different topics! Some include: Drought Years; Sheep Shearing; Old Fashioned Haying; Our Buggy Rides.

Here is just an excerpt from his first page...

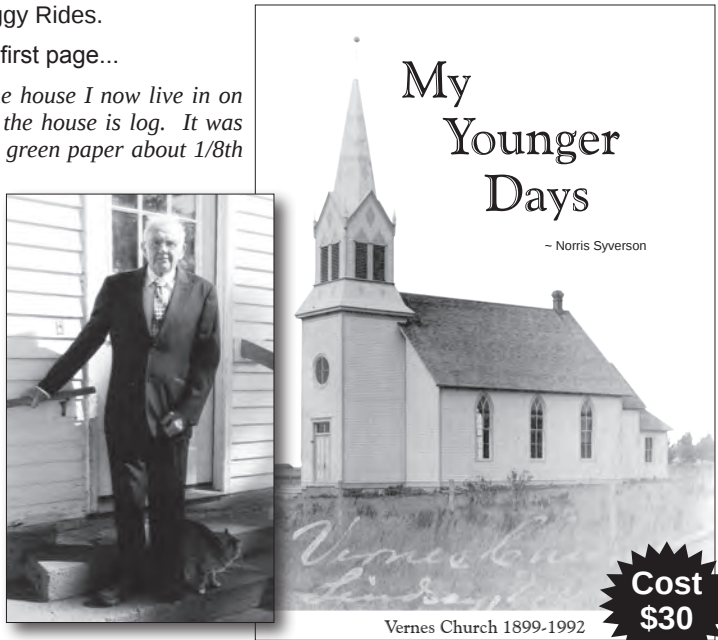

I was born in the front room of the house I now live in on December 24, 1933. This part of the house is log. It was covered with some kind of pressed green paper about 1/8th of an inch thick, now it is covered with 1/2 inch thick celotex.

This house had only two rooms downstairs, each one about 12 feet by 14 feet, with low ceilings about 7 1/2 feet high....There were 5 boys and 5 girls aging from 1 year to 16 years old, plus Ma and Pa living in this small house at that time....

"I hope every reader will seek the Lord and make sure you have the Lord Jesus deep in your heart for this is the Will of God."

Thank you. Norris Syverson

If you would like to receive a book, please contact Norris Syverson via the phone book.

I just want some Mr. Dee’s Potatoes and some Blue Bunny Ice Cream

After all...they were selling em 4 for 9 bucks those spuds. I mean, I don't wanna be mean but today I'm not up for cleaning all of the plastic out of the world's oceans. I'm not up to seeing what Iran's up to on the global stage. I know it was a big deal when the women's soccer team became world champs and probably an even bigger deal that women still don't get equal pay. But if I buy my potatoes on sale...maybe...just maybe I'll have enough left over to buy some of that Blue Bunny Ice Cream.

It's where my thoughts are goin today, and it's about all I can muster up. Which reminds me...I wonder if mustard is on sale? I best put that on my list.

Last I heard there are still deep divides between party lines that are dividing our nation, but if they'd all come on over to my house...any one of em...maybe I could share my Blue Bunny Ice Cream. Sharing at the table of grace might be refreshing.

Seems like nobody wants to filter out what's coming out so might as well stuff down something a bit more palatable. All that bickering just doesn't cut it. Bickering...that gets me to wondering if that ice cream comes in butter-brickle? Now that would taste sweet!

And, speaking of cutting it, looks like you don't even have to cut up Mr. Dee's Potatoes cause they are ready to go down just as they are. If I'm not mistaken, they come shredded or crinkle cut...take your pick. And did I mention you get a whole lot of em cause they are 4 for 9 bucks? I think I did, but it's worth repeatin.

As I turn the page, I see that sugar is on sale, too. For a second there I wonder if it's just a ploy to take down this nation...poisoning its food source by making us all sugar addicted...so maybe I'd best stick with Mr. Dee's Potatoes.

I'm into it deep now cause on page three of the sales flyer I note that Blue Bunny Ice Cream is available in sandwiches or mini cones...and pizza is on sale too!

Finally, on the final page, it all begins to make sense cause there is a full spread of fruit. The grapes are calling my name, California Peaches right here in Minnesota...not just cantaloupe but JUMBO cantaloupe is on sale. And wouldn't you know...ON THE VINE RED RIPE TOMATOES and soon...all of my worldly taste buds begin to calm as I come to my senses and remember...it's all about the fruit.

It's all about the fruit of thy womb, Jesus. It's about the fruit of the Spirit. And, it's about the ending because in the beginning He was and still is...I AM. He is who He says He is because it's all about Him and the blessed fruit He produces in us.

If we can only remember in the beginning what the ending is all about, then perhaps...just perhaps...we can better love our neighbor as ourselves. Amen.

Ask a Trooper

by Sgt. Jesse Grabow Minnesota State Patrol

Question: W h e n turning left on a blinking

yellow light, should one pull into the intersection? It seems like a blinking yellow should let at least one car through, but often cars will wait behind the line, negating the ability to move traffic through the intersection.

Answer: If you are at a flashing yellow light and are preparing to turn left, enter the intersection with caution. Drivers are allowed to turn left after yielding to all oncoming traffic and to any pedestrians in the crosswalk. Oncoming traffic has a green light. Drivers must wait for a safe gap in oncoming traffic before turning.

If a vehicle ahead of you is signaling for a left turn, slow down and prepare to stop.

If you are behind a vehicle making a left turn, do not enter the intersection in case the traffic light turns red as you might not be able to clear the intersection. This type of maneuver is against the law per Minnesota statute 169.15 IMPEDING TRAFFIC; INTERSECTION GRIDLOCK.

The intersection gridlock law applies specifically to entering an intersection (at a traffic control light) that you can't cross because traffic is backed up through the intersection due to another red light, train, etc. Entering the intersection in this case is against the law.

It happens in many cities and creates a lot of problems with the flow-of-traffic when one direction of traffic cannot continue on a green light because vehicles on the cross road are stopped and blocking the other lanes of traffic.

A portion of state statutes were used with permission from the Office of the Revisor of Statutes. If you have any questions concerning traffic related laws or issues in Minnesota, send your questions to Trp. What a day at ROLLAG!!

By Auctioneer Eric W. Mickelson

It is that time of year again, The Western Minnesota Steam Threshers Reunion at Rollag, Minnesota. I know in the last 31 years I have only missed it a couple of times. Some of us old timers don't always think bigger is better, but, Rollag keeps getting bigger and I happen to think better. Usually my routine is to get there in time to catch the parade then check out the highlights of the show. Of course I love to go to the "hill" and look at the tractors and machines that are on display matching whatever the feature is that year. This year the featured line was Case. Instead of watching the parade I suggested to my wife we take more time walking around and checking out the sites that we sometimes don't see or spend much time at.

Often at the end of the day we swing back through the hill to look at the tractors. This time we went through the tractors first. As we walked in they were threshing, one of my favorite activities. I had to stop and watch a nice old model L Case running a nicely restored Case threshing machine. I could have watched a lot longer but we had much to see. Next we watched a Case steamer running the sawmill and then we walked up to see those tractors.

I think my favorite was a DC Case with a two row corn cultivator mounted on it. Of course there were many Steam Traction Engines, since Case is probably the father of invention when it comes to the Steam Tractor.

The next stop is one of our favorites at Rollag, a stop at the Hawley Church concession stand for some rommegrot. All of you good Norwegians know what I am talking about. The cream, flour, butter, cinnamon, and sugar is delicious. Take your pick, there are many food stands I don't think you will be disappointed.

Naturally we went on a train ride and checked out the Pioneer Village and water wheel. Then we rode one of the people movers, (a hayrack with seats)pulled by a Minneapolis Moline. We got dropped off at the "sandbox" and watch the Kentuckian, a big steam powered digger, play in the dirt. I had never stopped by the "sandbox" before. There were many other machines digging and trenching. Then it was back to the main entrance to get ready to depart for home. As we approached they were having a program featuring Steiger Tractors. They have built a new building called I believe the Steiger Barn. We watched for a while then were back on the road. We were tired but made many comments on the fun day. Then we saw a rummage sale sign.....this was a new adventure of its own. We will have to talk more about that later.

If you have never made the pilgrimage to Rollag, MN, to see the Western Minnesota Steam Threshers Reunion, there is always next year. I know if I am able I will be back, if nothing else to enjoy a cup of rommegrot!

Three different diseases affecting horses identified in Minnesota:

Eastern equine encephalitis in Otter Tail County

Equine infectious anemia in Pine County

West Nile virus disease in Swift County

St. Paul, Minn. - Recent disease surveillance testing reveals a trio of rare equine diseases in three different Minnesota counties. Two of the diseases, Eastern equine encephalitis (EEE) and West Nile virus (WNV), are spread by mosquitoes and pose a risk to horses and people. The third disease, Equine infectious anemia (EIA), is not known to affect people, but requires infected horses to be euthanized or quarantined for life because there is no treatment or vaccine. Details surrounding the cases can be found below.

"Mid-July through early September is the highest risk time for EEE, WNV and other mosquito-transmitted diseases in Minnesota," said Minnesota Department of Health Epidemiologist, Dave Neitzel. "Minnesotans can protect themselves by wearing mosquito repellents and taking other precautions outlined on the MDH website: www.health.state.mn.us/mosquitoes."

"This is also a high-risk time of year for horses to become infected with these diseases," said Board of Animal Health Equine Program Director, Dr. Courtney Wheeler. "We strongly encourage all horses be vaccinated against EEE and WNV. Horse owners can take additional precautions by working with their veterinarian to evaluate their biosecurity practices, screening for disease in sick horses, and reducing pest populations on their property with simple measures like draining stagnant water and applying screens to barns."

Eastern equine encephalitis in Otter Tail County

A Minnesota veterinarian reported a case of Eastern equine encephalitis (EEE), a viral disease that causes inflammation of a horse's brain and spinal cord, in a 14-year-old Belgian mare in Otter Tail County. Distribution of the disease in horses has historically been restricted to eastern, southern and southeastern states, although cases have been recently confirmed in Wisconsin. There were also three cases in Minnesota horses in 2001 in Blue Earth, Kanabec and Anoka Counties.

The EEE positive horse was euthanized Thursday, August 1 after displaying symptoms of neurologic disease including uncontrolled leg movements, a limp tongue, and inability to rise on her own. Tissues from the horse were submitted to the University of Minnesota Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory and the Minnesota Department of Health's Public Health Laboratory, which detected EEE virus in the horse's brain tissue. The mare was also tested for West Nile virus, Western equine encephalitis and rabies, which were not detected. The owner of the horse reported she had no significant history of travel off the farm over the past 11 years and no history of vaccination against EEE. At least twenty other horses remaining on the premises appear healthy at this time.

Although the disease is thought to be rare, EEE can cause fatal infections in horses and people. The virus circulates between mosquitoes and birds, and when horses are bitten by mosquitoes carrying the virus, they're considered a "dead-end host" meaning they're unable to transmit the disease to other horses or people. In horses, EEE is fatal in more than 90 percent of cases.

"Even though people cannot contract the disease from horses, cases in horses are a clear indication that infected mosquitoes are in the area and could infect humans," said Neitzel. "Current EEE risk to people is likely highest in the area around the property in Otter Tail County where the horse case was reported."

Clinical illness and fatality in horses can be limited through EEE vaccines and decreased exposure to insects. The Minnesota Board of Animal Health encourages all horse owners to work with their veterinarians to get their horses vaccinated and booster vaccinated horses, especially if housed near the area where the disease was confirmed.

Equine infectious anemia in Pine County

Equine infectious anemia (EIA), a viral disease affecting horses, donkeys, and mules was confirmed by a Minnesota veterinarian in Pine County on Thursday, August 8. The veterinarian reported the affected horse was tested as part of routine screening shortly after being purchased from another Minnesota premises. Animal health officials quarantined the premises and the horse was euthanized. They are investigating to identify any additional potentially exposed horses. EIA poses no known risk to people.

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health requires EIA infected horses be euthanized or quarantined for life because there is no vaccine or treatment, and once a horse is infected it remains a carrier for life and may not display any clinical signs. Horses must have a negative blood test for EIA (Coggin's test) within 12 months of importation into Minnesota or before being exhibited at a public event.

"The Board's testing rules are in place to survey for this disease and prevent it from spreading," said Equine Program Director, Dr. Courtney Wheeler. "Even if you own a horse that never leaves your property, we encourage testing for EIA routinely and avoiding shows or events where there are no testing requirements."

EIA is primarily spread through horse and deer fly bites. People can also spread it between horses by using contaminated needles or other equipment not sanitized after working with infected horses, mules or donkeys.

Biosecurity is the best way to prevent many diseases like EIA. Some best practices include insect and pest control to reduce potentially infected flies from biting animals. Other measures, like cleaning and disinfecting equipment and supplies, and isolating new horses until they're tested for EIA are recommended. Minimizing or eliminating contact between non-exposed and infected horses is instrumental in preventing spread of the disease.

West Nile virus disease in Swift County

A Minnesota veterinarian reported suspected West Nile virus (WNV) in a 25-year old mare in Swift county. Clinical signs of neurologic illness progressed very quickly. The mare's owners reported the horse fell ill in the evening and was unable to rise the next morning. The horse was euthanized by the attending veterinarian who submitted a blood sample to the University of Minnesota Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory for WNV testing. Test results confirmed exposure to WNV (a Plaque Reduction Neutralization Test (PRNT) was positive). The horse had no documented history of vaccination against WNV. Three weeks prior to this case, another horse on the property presented with similar clinical signs and was euthanized but not tested for WNV. Three horses remaining on the premises appear healthy at this time and the owner plans to vaccinate them.

West Nile virus is regularly found in the United States, and birds serve as the primary host of the disease. Similar to EEE, this virus circulates between infected birds and mosquitoes. Once infected, mosquitoes can transmit the virus to horses or people. The virus can cause encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain and spinal cord. Infected horses may or may not show neurological symptoms and many recover completely, especially those who have a history of annual vaccination. While human WNV cases are reported in Minnesota every year, no human cases of WNV have been confirmed in the state in 2019 as of this release.

Vaccines for horses are widely available and have been proven to be effective in preventing infection. Steps can also be taken to reduce disease risk by reducing mosquitoes.

- Change water in drinking troughs every week.
- Mow long grass.
- Drain stagnant water puddles.
- Remove items mosquitoes use for breeding grounds, like old tires and tin cans.
- Place and maintain screens over windows and stable doors.
- Use mosquito repellents to protect horses and people from mosquito bites.

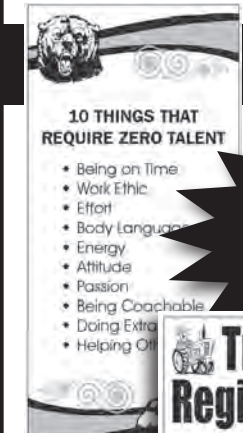

See annual maps of positive cases in horses on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service website.

This is a high-risk time of year for West Nile virus transmission. People are at risk too, and the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) advises wearing repellent, especially if you're outside at dawn or dusk. Learn more about the virus on the MDH website.

Non-negative test results for West Nile virus disease, Eastern equine encephalitis and Equine infectious anemia must be reported to the Board of Animal Health (domestic animals) and Minnesota Department of Health (humans).

Highway 59/ Highway 2 ramps opened August 30

Motorists traveling along Highway 59 and Highway 2 near Erskine can once again use the eastbound and westbound ramps as they opened August 30. Traffic is reduced to two-way, two-lane as construction on Highway 2 continues with resurfacing the road.

Crews have been working since May to reconstruct and replace the concrete pavement on Highway 2. Bridge repair and maintenance has also been completed on the highway 59 overpass as well as replacement of curb, gutter, storm sewer and culverts.

Minnesota Starwatch for September 2019

By Deane Morrison

Around the time of the September equinox, the days shorten at their fastest clip and the night reasserts its dominance of the northern sky. This year the equinox arrives at 2:50 a.m. on the 23rd. At that moment the sun will shine directly over the equator, lighting the Earth from pole to pole.

September's full moon rises the evening of the 13th. As the closest full moon to the equinox, it qualifies as the harvest moon. The harvest moon acquired its name by rising less than 30 minutes later from night to night for several days around full moon. This relative abundance of early moonlight helps farmers working into the night to harvest their crops before spoilage or an early frost sets in.

At nightfall, face south to see Saturn on the left and Jupiter on the right, both quite low in the sky. A waxing crescent moon visits Jupiter on the 5th; if you're a night owl, you may want to stay up and watch the planet and the moon reddening as they descend to the western horizon together. The moon visits Saturn on the 7th and 8th.

Above the planets, the Summer Triangle of bright stars reaches its highest and most favorable position for evening viewing this month. To the east, the autumn "water" constellations are entering the sky. If you like challenges, see if you can find the westernmost and dimmest of them: chevron-shaped Capricornus, the sea goat. Capricornus can be particularly hard to find because it has no bright stars. To make things easier, first have a look on the 10th, when the moon will be right in the middle of the constellation. Then wait for a moonless evening and try your luck. If you have a star map, this is a good time to use it.

In the west, Bootes, the herdsman, is dropping toward the horizon. At the base of the kite-shaped constellation is Arcturus, the brightest star in the northern hemisphere of sky. As Bootes falls, the kite stands upright, as though the weight of Arcturus were dragging it down. And speaking of downwardly mobile stars, Arcturus is actually falling through our galaxy. Instead of circulating in the disk of the Milky Way like the sun, it's slicing rapidly down through the disk. Taking the plunge with Arcturus are at least 52 stellar traveling companions, collectively known as the Arcturus Stream.

Often referred to as the "Caviar of Grains™," wild rice has long been a favorite of cooks who use it in soups, salads, sides, main dishes, and even desserts. Wild rice, a natural food with no preservatives or additives, is a whole grain containing no sodium, sugar, saturated fat or cholesterol and has more protein and fewer calories than white or brown rice. Wild rice is gluten-free and a great source of dietary fiber, phosphorus, calcium, and iron...all part of a healthy, well-balanced diet.

So help celebrate National Rice Month by voting for your favorite candidate (wild rice recipe) in our "Get Wild with Wild Rice" recipe contest by visiting mnwildrice.org and helping one lucky aspiring chef take home the cash prize! Voting begins September 1 and all votes must be cast by September 30th. (One vote per person, IP addresses will be used to validate results.)
