Commissioners hear from RLWD, US Fish & Wildlife Service, County Food Shelf

By Karen Edelbach
The Clearwater County Board of Commissioners met on June 30, 2015 with all commissioners in attendance.
First on the agenda were representatives from the Red Lake Watershed District (RLWD), Myron Jesme, Administrator, and Les Torgerson who is on the Board of Management. Les explained some of the priorities the Watershed is dealing with, mainly water quality. He said big items now are the buffer strip rules; the state wide aquifers, which are showing nitrates and nitrites in them; and flood damage reduction projects.
"This is a big project for the Watershed District. Other projects are to set up rules for tiling and flood damage reduction for the benefit of others downstream."
"The Red Lake Watershed District keeps very good records, then other organizations come in to help do something about the needs," Les said.
"Clearwater County is at the top of the Watershed," Byron commented. "So those down the line are happy to pay for any water retention." They are paid for the land, but can still farm it, though there is a risk at times of flooding.

"There is money available now for flood control. We try to do these projects with the least amount of local money," said Jesme. He said he has been doing this kind of work for 32 years.
Lynn Sebek, Neil Powers, and trainee Blake Knisley came from U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service seeking wetland easement requests, which were approved.
Concerns were expressed about wolves being destructive in the county, with calves being killed, and waterways being dammed up by beavers.
Powers expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to conduct a tour last month of the projects being done in Clearwater County Commissioners Neal Illies and Arlen Syverson said it was a nice trip.
Clearwater County Food Shelf President Becky Colebank, and employee Susanne Moen came to the Board to ask for a donation for the Food Shelf from the County.
Becky said, "The food bank is funded totally by donations. In 2014, $26,780 in donations were received; we had $24,485 in expenses. During 2014, 1,422 families were assisted with food donations, with a total of 61,889 pounds of food.

"These are people that are needy," Becky said. Susanne added, "It is a privilege working there."
Eighteen churches and volunteers are involved in the project, and the Food Shelf has been operating for 14 years from the basement of the Legion building. They are saving for their own building. The food comes from North Country Food Bank, plus local donations from Galen's, Kubiak's, Bagley Bakery, Bemidji and other locations.
Commissioner John Nelson said this request might be considered during the next budget period.
County Surveyor Bob Murray brought an update about the remonumentation progress in the county, with 284 corners done. Next in line to have section corners done

Commissioner John Nelson recently attended a flag raising ceremony in Alexandria, for Prime West Health, owned by 13 Minnesota counties, including Clearwater. He said there was an impressive display of flag poles, one for each of the County's flag. He was given a Clearwater County flag which he displayed with the help of Commissioner Stenseng.

July 4th "It's a Trail Thing, You Understand"

-Submitted by Cindy Kolling
The banner on the second place winners in the Trail Kid's Parade proclaimed "It's a Weme Thing, You Wouldn't Understand", (the entrants were, of course, the Weme kids). But since these kids, and those of many other families have celebrated a lifetime of July 4th's in Trail, the slogan fits for Trail too... Those who haven't spent a 4th or two in Trail don't always understand the old-fashioned, hometown funtime of Trail on the 4th.
The tradition of Trail on the Fourth is most pronounced when the holiday falls on a weekend. The family and friends groups that gather are those who know they can go to "The Lake" any other weekend, and that they'll have all the fixings for a great Independence Day right there in Trail.
"We always expect fewer people to come into Trail when there are other celebrations going on around, but it's funny, one minute that the street is empty and the next minute the kids all come walking all dressed to join the parade." Tony Weber made this observation from his front-row seat at the picnic tables in front of the Pavilion, between bites of homemade pie from the lunch stand.
Karen Weber signed up the parade entrants and gave them their numbers. While everyone was getting into place, Gabby loaded up Grampa's Gully Express Train with more kids to take their tour of the town.
People ambled in. Most went straight to the lunch counter in the pavilion for round one of the many passes they'd eventually make for an ice-cream float, cold water or hot coffee and a brat or barbecue. The counter was lined with colorful plump pieces of homemade pie and bars (for round two).
The judges were given their clipboards and instructions, and the parade was off. The judges, although experienced, had to hem and haw and scratch their heads while they scribbled their notes. Judging this parade is a very tough job. The festive walkers, riders and wavers toured Main Street. First Place Winners were Tucker and Tayton Nyland, with their entry called "Future Farmers of America". Their trailer had pretty much everything that a couple of up-and-coming farmers could need. And, even as hot as it was, they still donned their bib overalls and boots.

Second Place went to the colorful characters called the Weme Kids whose philosophy of "It's a Weme Thing, You Wouldn't Understand" had everyone in the crowd grinning and nodding approval because of course, in Trail, they did understand. (If you don't understand, you better get to Trail next July 4th!)

Third Place went to Princess Fireworks. Hailey Hanson. She was grandly dressed in a red and white ball gown, with a red white and blue sparkly tiara, red sequined dance slippers, and a fancy title ribbon.
Other entrants were elaborately and festively dressed showing that these were not last-minute costumes (al-

Eileen and Jim Votava are just a couple of those who make Trail on the 4th an annual tradition to enjoy with friends and family.

Eggs are serious business in the final event of the street games in Trail. Two lines of people crowded onto the grassy area of the Egg Toss contest. Some have practiced, some have not. Either way the air tickles with excitement as eggs are handed out. Anything can happen. Those last standing with an unbroken or un-dropped egg are the winners. The 2015 Trail Egg Toss Champs are Jarrod (left) with teammate Peter Schmit. It's a thing to be proud of.

2 Loons Letters & Threads Grand Opening Friday, July 10

By Pam Goebel
Clearwater Life Center in Gonvick is home to another new business in our community! Here's introducing, 2 Loons Letters & Threads, the innovative brainchild of Jay Jones and Gus Vettleson.
Jay, has been the art teacher at Clearbrook-Gonvick school for 3 years, following a career as a full time artist. Jay and wife Mistie are parents to three children- Blake, 17, Caleb, 2 and Brielle, 5 months.
Gus has been a Math teacher at Clearbrook-Gonvick School for 12 years and was recently married to Kay Granley, of Clearbrook.
These 2 Loons offer screen printing, sign and logo design, and graphic design. Just looking at the great design they created for their own logo will give you confidence that they can do the same for your events or business!
The friendship between Gus and Jay led to the idea of beginning a business together, and the opportunity presented itself this year, when Gus and Jay purchased the equipment for 2 Loons from LeAnne Walberg. LeeAnn has operated her business, LeeAnn's Shirt Shop, for 18 years in our area.
The name 2 Loons seemed appropriate considering our state bird, and because they are 2 Loony guys! (Their words, not mine.)
The 2 Loons are excited to bring their unique skills into this new business, providing a much needed service, while offering quality, affordable products. They understand how important it is to keep our business community thriving, while offering more local choices for everyone in our area. Their commitment is to be a part of the answer in "knitting" our community together!
Since summer began they have been in full swing, answering demands for events such as reunions, rodeos and for a variety of businesses getting ready for the summer season. Whatever the occasion, call on the 2 Loons to create T-shirts, hats or more to make your celebration complete! Need a new eye catching logo? Again, 2 Loons Letters & Threads is the answer.
The 2 Loons Letters & Threads Grand Opening is Friday, July 10 from 3-7 pm. Stop by to see the space, have a snack, sign up for drawings or purchase some of their creations!
So call 218-487-2LNS (2567) and check them out on Facebook!

Gus Vettleson, Production Manager, is the operator of the two head embroidery machine at 2 Loons Letters & Threads in Gonvick. Seeing all the colors of thread on the wall helps to envision all the possibilities!

Designer Jay Jones is at his computer where he creates logos and artwork for projects as they are ordered. 2 Loons Letters & Threads is located in the Clearwaters Life Center in Gonvick.

Workers are scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If you want to work a shift, call Renae Bakke. We need your help.
We have t-shirts, sweat-shirts, visors and caps available now in maroon or white. They'll be available reunion days in the school gym.
If your class is planning a get-together any of these three days, give the information to Renae Bakke as she'll put it on the bulletin board at the school. The school is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday 9:00-3:00.

Look for the "yellow ribbons around the old oak tree" as they'll be up around town the end of this week. It's our welcoming home sign and we're happy to see you!
The carnival will be at the tent west of the school from 11:30 to 12:30. Ross Faldet and his girls basketball team will be running it.
Uff Da Taco Stand will be set up north of the Community Center again this year, Friday and Saturday.
The girls and boys alumni basketball games will be Friday night, 6:30-8:30, Gonvick-Trail School gym. Please call EvaLee Janssen, 487-5714, to sign up. Each team will play about 15 minutes, depending on number of participants. We would like to have these players help us set up tables and chairs after the basketball. Anyone else who wants to help, just come. Let's fill the bleachers and cheer on the players.

The program Saturday evening during the meal in the school gym will feature Steve Philion as MC. We will reminisce, draw for prizes, have some music and Rodney Radley, a comedian, will entertain us. Let's make this the best reunion ever!

Custom deer stand

This custom built deer stand is one of a kind. It is the brainchild of Richard Sather, a member of Samhold Lutheran Church in Gonvick. The deer stand will be raffled off during Pumpkin Days to be held on September 26 in Gonvick.

The deer stand was on display as a participant in the parades in Clearbrook during Summerfest and again in Gonvick, during Rodeo Weekend, so be sure to take a look at this amazing deer stand!

Many helped make Richard's vision a reality. Lester Mast engineered the fabricating and welding on the trailer, while Joni Borntrager built the house itself. Sue Eck at the Leader Record was a great help in designing the banner and tickets and Jay Jones, of 2 Loons Letters and Threads designed a banner and the T-shirts that are a must have!

Richard Sather will be completing the finishing, such as flooring, window trim, and base trim using some of the oak salvaged from the old church organ.

These talented craftsmen thought of every detail when creating this deer stand, so be ing that day. Gully folks cannot celebrate without music!

The first group to perform is a trio that many of us have heard and enjoyed for a number of years: Robin Norgaard Kelleher, Carole Tharaldson and Tanya Tharaldson. Robin and Carole have been singing together since they were teenagers. Tanya joined the group about four years ago. The trio sings classic country and country gospel songs accompanied by guitars. They will be performing at the Gully Community Center from 2:00-3:00 p.m.

The Big Bass Ramblers from Bemidji will get our "toes tapping" from 6:00- 8:00 p.m. at the Community Center. The music of Big Bass Ramblers ranges from blues to bluegrass, country to rock and roll, folk to classic rock and gospel. The group consists of Jay Forney on guitar and vocal; Vickie Ambuehl, vocals; Fred Ambuehl on bass; and Dennis Doeden on string banjo and vocals. You may find yourself singing along or dancing.

The later evening music is Scarlet County, a Twin Cities based band. Gully is able to get this group because of some "local pull". Scarlet County will be playing at Shorty's from 9:00 p.m.-1:00 a.m. Plan to hear a variety of country rock music ranging from Johnny Cash to Miranda Lambert to REO Speed Wagon. The band consists of Alyssa (lead vocal), Mike (lead guitar), Matt (bass guitar) and Sean (drums).

Of special interest is the connection of each group to the Gully area. In the first group, Robin Norgaard went to Gully Grade School and Gonvick High School. Tanya and Carole have lived and worked in the Gully area for many years. Big Bass Ramblers includes Jay Forney, who is married to Mary Danielson who attended Gully Grade School and Gonvick High School and Fred Ambuehl, a Gonvick High School graduate. The lead vocalist in Scarlet County, Alyssa Scott, is the daughter of Sheila and Russell Emerson of Gully. No wonder these are such fine groups!

Giddy-Up Gonvick's 5k / 1 mile fun run is being planned. All proceeds benefit Retrieving Freedom, Inc. Registration starts at 7 am, race starts at 8am at the Clear Water Life Center in Gonvick (old school gym) on Saturday July 11th. Cost is $25. Running, Walking, Wagons & Strollers welcome!

Time will be from 11:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Funds acquired will assist with medical expense for Emily and her family. Lunch of pulled pork and a silent auction will be held. Emily was hospitalized at the end of April with a severe Lupus flare. After seven days in the hospital, she developed a brain bleed (stroke), then was air lifted to Sanford Hospital in Fargo. Once stabilized, she spent an additional three weeks in Acute Rehab in Bemidji, where she received intense rehabilitations. All told, she spent a total of 31 days in the hospital, and continues to receive speech, occupational, and physical therapies. She is no longer able to work at the job she loved, after 18 years in that department. She hopes that one day she will be able to return to the work force.

Remember ... It is not the cost of the gift that counts !!! MAMA'S BIBLE... Four brothers left home for college, and they became successful doctors and lawyers, and prospered.

Some years later, they chatted after having dinner together. They discussed the gifts they were able to give their elderly mother who lived far away in another city. The first said, "I had a big house built for Mama." The second said, "I had a hundred thousand dollar theater built in the house." The third said, "I had my Mercedes dealer deliver an SL600 to her."

The fourth said, "You know how Mama loved reading the Bible and you know she can't read anymore because she can't see very well. I met this preacher who told me about a parrot that can recite the entire Bible. It took twenty preachers 12 years to teach him. I had to pledge to contribute $100,000 a year for twenty years to the church, but it was worth it. Mama just has to name the chapter and verse and the PARROT will recite it."

The other brothers were impressed. After the holidays Mom sent out her Thank You notes.

She wrote: " Milton , the house you built is so huge I live in only one room, but I have to clean the whole house. Thanks anyway."

"Marvin, I am too old to travel. I stay home, I have my groceries delivered, so never use the Mercedes. The thought was good. Thanks."

"Michael, you gave me an expensive theater with Dolby sound, it could hold 50 people, but all of my friends are dead, I've lost my hearing and I'm nearly blind. I'll never use it. Thank you for the gesture just the same."

"Dearest Melvin, you were the only son to have the good sense to give a little thought to your gift. The chicken was delicious. Thank you."

Love,

First Place award in the Trail July 4th kids parade: Tayton and Tucker Nyland with their float called "Future Farmers of America".

Second Place award in the Trail July 4th kids parade: The Weme Kids with "It's a Weme Thing".

Trail 4th..

Continued from front page though there maybe were a couple of those too... but what of it? The more the merrier! There were a few moans and comments from the crowd wishing their grandchildren or kids or they themselves would have taken a few minutes to gather some kind of dress-up to participate. "Next year" they said. Next year, don't be one of those "shoulda-woulda-coulda" people, but plan now to gather about noon for a relaxed visiting day with fun and games in Trail on the 4th! And, be sure to join the parade!

Music from the jam session in the shady pavilion drifted outside and kept the atmosphere lively through town. The kids lined up for street games and they were off to the races. The muggy heat didn't seem to slow anybody down.

Then it was off to the Ping-Pong Ball gather, and prizes were handed out for that. By then it was time for a box of popcorn or another piece of pie... and oh! look here who has showed up now... well, might as well visit and have a barbecue... let's call it supper.

The band started playing and the dance floor filled.

By dusk, the best viewing places were filled in anticipation of the fireworks display. Lawn chairs were set out, tailgates pulled down and pillows placed on the hoods of cars.

As the sun set, the cars rolled in. It was a steady stream of headlights until just after dark, the night sky lit up with a fantastic fireworks display. Fireworks just don't get any better than they are in Trail. When the last sparkle settled, the car horns were honked in a hearty Trail-style standing ovation.

A good time was had by all. It's a tradition thing, you understand. See you next year in Trail on July 4th Third Place award in the Trail July 4th kids parade: "Princess Fireworks" Hailey Hanson.

Yuk. Sooner or later all the eggs except one are dropped or broken. Look closely and you'll see this good natured contestant has just caught a handful of egg slime. The egg toss is a favorite event at Trail on July 4th.

Judging the Trail Kid's parade is a tough job even for experienced judges Lloyd Sweno and Doug Robbins.

The Three-legged race (varying ages in separate heats) is just one of the many skill tests that are part of the street games on July 4th in Trail. Fun to participate in and fun to watch.

Three sand piles are salted with coins for July 4th in Trail. Different ages go to each pile to keep it fun for all.

To the left... Lining up for the Kid's Parade in Trail. The parade is a July 4th tradition for many area kids. Festive get-ups of all kinds were marched up and down Main Street in front of an enthusiastic audience.

Shown below... Grandpa's Gully Express Train is a favorite way to tour Trail on the 4th of July.

Trail on the 4th is fun even for the very young. The games and sand pile dig are separated by age brackets to keep the activities fun for all ages.

Trail Fourth of July winners

- $100 Yvonne Basinger
- $100 Kent Bergerson
- $75 Gabby Gustafson
- $50 Barb Novak
- $25 Brian Beckstrand
- $25 Elaine Loiland
- $25 Kurt Halvorson
- $25 Erv Wickham

Jacie Martinez holds two of the keys to a perfect July 4th in Trail: a cold icy treat and one of the many quarters that are collected for participating in the games and activities throughout the afternoon.

Cotton Candy from Yvonne Basinger's stand is a special treat on July 4th in Trail.

How many ping-pong balls can you carry? Hundreds of them are collected and brought in for collection of prizes at the Trail 4th of July celebration.

Double Yuk. Ted Carlson just caught a flying egg... in pieces. Well, better luck next year! Trail's July 4th Egg Toss is almost as much fun to watch as to enter.

Fall Grown Forages

The severe winter, coupled with drought, may explain the disappointing yield of the first crop of hay. Although we did not experience the obvious alfalfa winterkill common in central Minnesota, many area fields were stressed to the point stand loss, delayed growth and reduced yields.

The recent rains and favorable growing conditions have helped, but the short first crop may create forage shortfall for some producers. If we continue to get rain, the perennial forage crops may recover enough to provide adequate forage for your winter needs, but it may be prudent to make alternative plans.

If you have ground ready to plant now, sorghum-sudangrass, sudangrass or millet are excellent options. All have the potential to produce an abundant forage crop during the heat of mid-summer, provided the seed has moisture to germinate. But the clock is ticking on these options, once we get into late July or August, the better option is a fall-grown cereal forage, such as oats, barley, wheat or triticale.

Of course, any planted seed requires rain to get started, but as fall approaches, the odds of rain increase. These options are still a gamble, but all have relatively low input costs.

Planting cereal grains in early to mid August has the potential to produce significant forage for fall grazing or hay harvest. Research in Wisconsin has shown that oats planted the first week of August can produce from 2 to 3 tons per acre, provided we have moisture.

Oats is not the only cereal grain that can be planted, but UW researchers found it to be the best yielding option. Other small grains grow well in the fall but shorter varieties typically produce less, how much less will depend on the variety. Peas can be added and will increase the protein and palatability but may not increase the yield. However, the addition of peas will make it difficult to harvest the forage as dry hay, but if you graze, chop or make baleage, adding peas is a good option.

Research at the USDA Dairy Forage Research Center in Wisconsin found that a late-maturing forage cultivar (ForagePlus) produced the maximum annual yields ranging from 2 to 3.5 tons DM/a. Because the forage cultivar matured slowly it was better able to respond to the erratic late-summer precipitation.

The forage types mature later and produce more tonnage of quality forage. If seed of a forage type is not available, plant a late maturing oat variety. After the first week of August use of a forage type oat will provide less advantage and grain-type cultivars often may be better management choices.

Previous research in Wisconsin showed that barley yielded slightly less than oats but significantly more than spring triticale or the winter grains. Oats will likely be the least expensive to grow and offers the best value in yield and quality. That said, a variety that produces more leaves and less stem (think shorter) will have greater forage quality, but a lower yield. Yield and quality are always the trade-off.

Interestingly, fall planted oat is higher in forage quality than spring planted oats. Research at the University of Wisconsin found that maturation of summer-sown (August) oats was delayed, resulting in 10 to 15% less fiber (NDF), 18% greater digestibility, and 250% more water soluble carbohydrate than spring-sown oat. This means fall grown cereals will have more energy and better fiber utilization which will increase milk or meat production.

The recommendation is to plant 1.5 to 2 bu oats/acre (with or without peas) in early to mid -August. Additional nitrogen may be beneficial, but a soil test may be necessary, especially if the previous crop was damaged due to drought. If a normal yield was harvested, fertilize with 60 to 70 lb nitrogen per acre at planting. If sowing prevented planting acres, or summer fallow, the additional nitrogen may not be necessary. It is also important to check for any herbicide plant-back restrictions prior to planting the oat or oat/pea mixture. Planting earlier than the first week of August will result in earlier maturation and reduced yield.

Oats should be harvested in the late boot/early heading stage which generally occurs in late October. Oat planted during the late summer is also very tolerant to freezing, but freezing temperatures can also be a harvest aid. If the crop is cut when temperatures will be below freezing, the hay tends to dry very rapidly. However, dry hay is not your only harvest option; a fall oats crop can also be grazed or made into baleage or silage.

Clearbrook Veterans Memorial dedication held

The weather held out for the dedication of the Veterans Memorial in Clearbrook during the All-School Reunion. Work was being done up to the last day for the dedication. $60,000 has been spent getting it done to this point. The group in charge has plans to add pathways up to the area, handicap accessible ramps and a small pavilion for people to sit to honor the lost veterans and those who served our country.

Rolf Anderson started thinking about a memorial five years ago after returning from the last all-school reunion to his home in Colorado. He spoke with George Postier and it was not until a couple of years ago that they really got serious about getting the project off the ground. The Clearbrook Veterans Memorial Committee sent out forms with a drawing of the memorial to several people. They were looking for contributions for tribute bricks and benches for all past and present veterans. With the contributions and all the special help they received from area groups they were able to do a tremendous amount on their vision. Jay Jones did the Memorial Design; Gustafson and Goudge did the preliminary ground work and all concrete work with Dylan Goudge, Paul Nelson and all C & G employees who worked on the project; Andy Ness and all Ness Granite employees who worked on the project; Brad Bjerke with Bjerke Sod; Jeff Jorgenson donated all sand, gravel and black dirt; Hill River Electric with Richard Hetland who did all the electrical requirements; Tim Allen and all T&K employees who worked on the project. Others who helped were Barkman Concrete Limited, Clearwater Life Center, Gonvick, Larry Westrum, Tom Anderson, Austin Postier, Russell Lembke and Dan Johnson.

Any donations are being accepted by the Clearbrook American Legion.
