McIntosh Times has a new summer intern

Editors Note: Each year the Minnesota Newspaper Association offers newspapers around the state an opportunity to participate in the Pohlad Family Foundation Summer Youth Employment Program.

The program was started eleven years ago, and is designed to provide support to newspaper who hire high school-aged interns over the course of the summer.

The Pohlad Foundation aims to provide youth with meaningful employment experiences, through the program.

The internship is meant to be a learning experience for the student including getting to know the paper, learning the basics of reporting and writing, building on these basics, and learning about community involvement. This year, Krystal Haugen has been chosen to be the McIntosh Times summer intern. If you have a story idea or would like to offer any advice, feel free to stop in or email us. Here is her story:

My name is Krystal Elian Beatrice Haugen, and I am the new summer intern at the Krystal Haugen the summer intern at the McIntosh Times.

McIntosh Times. I was born in Fosston, MN on Monday January 27th 1997 at 10:57. My dad Tony Haugen choose my first name but my mom Leslie Haugen didn't like it spelled with a 'C' so they changed it to a 'K'. I have two middle names that are very special to me. One is Elian which is after my dad's mom's middle name and my other middle name Beatrice is named after my mom's mom's middle name. I have one older brother named Derrick. On March 24th, 2014 I became an aunt to Aiden Jay Haugen.

Hobbies of mine are golfing with friends and my brother, hanging with my dog Coco, camping, babysitting, swimming, art, and teaching Aiden new things.

I graduated in May 2015 from Win-E-Mac high school. This fall I will be attending Northwest Technical College in Bemidji MN. I will be studying early childhood education. One class I am very excited to attend is American Sign Language. When I was in high school I helped out as a student aid in the preschool room where I learned how to do the alphabet in sign language because there was a student who was hard of hearing.

One thing I am proud of would be my art. Once again this year I entered my art work into the Polk County Fair and got two first place ribbons, one second place ribbon and one third place ribbon.

Diane Rolf feeds her new calf at the Polk County Fair over the past weekend. The calf, born at the fair, is named Firecracker.

Jordan Gunufson loaded up and ready to get to the Polk County Fair on Saturday, where he competed in the Baja race. Jordan plaes second in his first heat, then in the Feature, he unfortunately lost his tranny. His car was covered with local, McIntosh area sponsors including: Jered's Grocery, Rick's Repair, Stordahl Tax, Neil's Quality Meats, The Club Bar & Grill, McIntosh Country Store, McIntosh Bakery, Hedlund Backhoe, Schow Farms and Icesaw.com.

North Country Detailing opens in Winger

How does one go on after the loss of a child? When you are a single mother of four you really have no choice. Lori Lucken's son Nash was born April 5, 2012. Soon after his birth, and some very scary times, it was determined that Nash was born with a very rare blood disorder. So rare that is doesn't even have a name.

For two years blood donations gave Lori and her family precious time with Nash. Time to make memories. Nash required round the clock care so Lori quit her job. Even with much of his short life spent in hospitals, Lori made sure Nash experienced the things other children his age did, including have the port in his chest wrapped in saran wrap so he could enjoy the beach.

Nash lost his battle with this mysterious disorder and entered heaven on April 29, 2014.

The three F's : faith, family and friends have provided Lori with comfort during this most difficult time.

Lori is determined to keep Nash's memory alive by being a champion for blood donations. If a blood drive is being held anywhere within 100 miles, you can rest assured that Lori will let you know about it. She also sponsors a blood drive in memory of Nash in her small hometown of Winger, MN annually on Nash's birthday.

Lori also has set up a fund to make donations in Nash's memory to the Children's Miracle Network, specifically Sanford Children's hospital in Fargo. Nash spent much of his short life at Sanford and was provided with exceptional care. Beside donations Lori also sells t-shirts with Nash's picture in the superman logo on the front. The t-shirts were made possible through donations from area businesses so 100 percent of the proceeds from the t-shirts are donated to Sanford Children's Hospital.

As Lori struggled to settle into her new normal without Nash, she knew she had to make a living to take care of her children. She wanted to do something that would allow her a flexible schedule to be there for her other children. Enter Lori's family packed with entrepreneurs. What better footsteps to follow in. Lori decided to start her own business. North Country Detailing was born.

North Country Detailing will clean many types of vehicles from cars and pickups to semis and even tractors. They will even clean up your camper. Located on Highway 59 in Winger, the shop is located right across the street from the famous Depot Café and Convenience Store. The detailing shop offers a variety of service ranging from carpet shampooing to aluminum polishing. A basic detail is $60 and includes your carpet vacuumed and your dash and doors detailed and a complete detailing package includes shampooing from the floor to the roof, and a wash and wipe down inside and out for $150.

The shop even includes blowing out vents and shining up door trim with the complete detail package. They can get the most stubborn stains out of upholstery and gum out of your carpet.

Lori has the latest and up-to-date industrial carpet shampoos and steamers, so you can expect to leave with a clean vehicle in as little as 4 hours. The shop is available to take on your project anytime that you need, but is open only by appointment, and can work into anyone's schedule.

They will have an Open House later in the fall, so watch for details.

Although missing Nash never gets easier, Lori has been able to find some normalcy in her life. Her children and her family are her sanctuary in dealing with her grief. Keeping busy with her business and raising awareness about the need for blood donations gives her life and Nash's passing purpose. Lori is committed to making sure Nash's legacy lives on.

If you would like to purchase a Nash t-shirt contact or for detailing, you can call Lori at 218-280-0475. To donate blood, or find out more information about giving blood, please go to www.bloodhero.com or call (701) 293-9453.

Pictured right: Museum mystery – Dylan Poehl's inspected one of the mysterious artifacts at the Polk County Museum in Crookston. It is purported to be an anchor for a Viking ship but there's no provenance for it. Poehl, who is from Mott, N.D., is a summer intern at the museum. This fall, he will be a senior at the University of Minnesota Crookston. If anyone has any information about this "anchor", they can contact the museum at 218-281-1038, polkcomuseum@rrv.net or write the Polk County Historical Society, Box 214, Crookston, MN 56716. The museum is open noon to 4 Tuesday through Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Reasons to Celebrate

July 15th is Cow Appreciation Day. And, that's no bull! But, it is something to "Moo" about.

Our appreciation for cows can be expressed in many ways. Some websites suggest you go out and give a cow a big hug and/or a kiss.

While it might sound like fun, you don't have to go to extremes to enjoy this special day.

It can be as simple as pausing for a moment to to think about cows, and all that they do for us.

Now that we've had our moment of silence, it's time to celebrate. Have an ice cold glass of milk. Add chocolate syrup, if you prefer.

Then, fire up the grill, and cook some burgers or a steak. And, don't forget to get your fill of cheese.

Sorry, goat cheese is not allowed today.

Random Things and Stuff

Take Me Fishing

By: Emily L. Ferden

Anyone that knows me knows how much I love to go fishing. Whether it is fishing out on the lake in the summer or ice fishing in the winter, you can count me in! Living in northern Minnesota, we have a lot of opportunities to go out and fish. Here are some tips for the other fishermen and fisherwomen out there (taken from: takemefishing.org).

Freshwater Fishing Tips

- For lake and river fishing, go where the water turns from shallow to deep. Fish like to congregate and look for food in this area.

- Shiny fishing lures can attract certain fish, but the reflection of the sun can blind them and cause confusion.

- Use a matted metal fishing lure instead if possible, to avoid too much reflection.

- Cast close to the shoreline for more bites.

- Look for mossy areas, as fish prefer to swim in these areas to forage for food.

- A lot of people use worms as bait, but locusts are also a great choice. Larger fish like bass really enjoy these insects.

- Check the local fishing reports that day for updates on areas where they're biting.

- Sunrise is an excellent time to fish, try to go out early in the morning.

- Pay close attention to the movement of your line. Learn how to understand the difference between a curious fish and one that is biting so you can hook and reel it in.

- Research the region you will be fishing in to find out what kinds of fish live there and the things they like.

- Be patient. Patience really is the key to good fishing. Bring a book or radio if you plan to out for a long time and remember that all good things come to those who wait.

Bass Fishing Tips

- Be sure to choose the right lure for the right situation. Not every time of day or area of water will require the same type of lure. Each lure has its own purpose, and is meant for different bass or different locations. It may take trial and error, but this is a very valuable lesson.

- Get familiar with the waters you're fishing in. If you go to one specific location more than another, learn about which areas the bass tend to swim in, and find out which time of day they are most prevalent. Timing is everything when it comes to bass fishing.

- Ask some experts or seasoned fishermen for advice. People who have been bass fishing for a long time will most likely have plenty of good advice to share.

- Casting styles are important. It may take a bit of research, but find out which casting styles will work best for your particular fishing area. For example, fan casting works well for large ponds or lakes where there is not much interference, but this method may not work well in other situations.

- Bait is very important. Plastic worms tend to do well, and most bass enjoy worms. Decide whether live bait or plastic works best, depending on your own personal preferences.

- Learn about different species of bass. By learning about what kinds of bass live in the areas you fish in, as well as what they like and where they tend to hang out, you can get an insider's view of how to catch them.

Things to Keep In Your Tackle Box

1. Flashlight: It's handy whenever you're out after dark, essential if you're stranded and have to signal for help.

2. Adjustable Wrench: This has a wide variety of uses, from opening reel covers to tightening trolling-motor bolts.

3. Split-Ring Pliers: They open split rings and allow you to replace hooks quickly and easily.

4. Lure Dye: With lure dye, you can change a lure's hue in seconds.

5. First-Aid Supplies: Don't let a minor injury ruin your day. If you hook your hand, for example, some simple supplies will let you take care of the problem on the water—and keep fishing.

6. Spare Treble Hooks: Hooks often become dull or damaged when worked over rocks and gravel.

7. Spare Rod Tips: If you've never snapped off a rod tip, you will.
